Foreword

Every year at the University brings us new experiences never before quite equaled. Each year we realize that something precious has gone by, the like of which we never again shall be able to capture. The aim of the 1943 KEY has been to make permanent such experiences.

This school year has been one which will stand out vividly in the minds of us at Dubuque for the events of national importance which so strongly affected this campus. The students and faculty kept an admirable spirit alive, however, and we can look back now on a year rich with memories more valuable to us than we may ever realize. It is with real regret that we complete the record of another year spent at Dubuque—a living school.

For his sympathetic understanding of student thinking, for his pleasant guidance in helping us acquire our religious heritage, for his skillful combination of wit and wisdom revealed both from the pulpit and the lecture platform, Dr. Samuel S. Garvin for many years has merited the special admiration and respect which have been given inwardly so often by his students and friends. Yet, at times, the occasion arises when we may express openly our appreciation for friendships which we tend to take for granted.

We, the KEY staff, feeling that we are voicing the thoughts of the students and faculty, therefore dedicate this, the KEY of 1943, to our teacher, friend and advisor—Dr. Garvin.

His past accomplishments and honors academic we shall leave unmentioned here. It is Dr. Garvin himself more than his scholastic achievements that we respect and admire, and it is this personality and character which has kept, and always will keep him, high in our estimation.

E. Stanley Jones

Honorary Rector

When, on November 9, 1941, Dr. E. Stanley Jones received the degree of honorary rector from the University of Dubuque, it was the second event of that sort to take place in the history of the school. This conferring of an honorary rectorial degree first occurred two years ago when Thomas Mann, world-famous writer, was installed in that capacity.

St. Luke's Methodist Church was again the scene of the rectorial convocation this year, with all the pomp and circumstance of such an impressive occasion being included in the ceremony. Present were the entire senior class and the faculty, all wearing academic caps and gowns. In keeping with the scholastic nature of the occasion, Homer Konzett, president of the Student Council, read the Legend of the Mace, now a traditional part of every similar event. Finally, to lend a conclusive religious note to the setting, the University a cappella choir, under the direction of Prof. Noel J. Logan, presented several numbers. This latter portion of the program and most of Dr. Jones' rectorial address were broadcast over both the Dubuque radio stations.

Dr. Jones is probably most famed for his missionary work which has taken him to widely scattered parts of the globe. Next on his list of accomplishments may be included a large number of books on subjects of interest to Christians as a whole. One of these books, CHRIST OF THE INDIAN ROAD, was written in part while Dr. Jones was visiting in Dubuque several years ago.

His wide knowledge of and familiarity with everyday Christian problems made him an ideal leader the short while Dr. Jones was on the campus. He has a manner of expressing himself which caused all of his addresses to be well attended, and his ability to give sound advice in answer to almost any problems put to him made Dr. Jones one of the busiest men at Dubuque the few days he was here.

Senior Class History

The class of 1942 was referred to the University of Dubuque by the faculty of various high schools in September, 1938, for treatment of general lack of culture, incorrigibility and hypermoronicism.

It all began when some sophomore shouted, "Hey, freshman, button!" Spurred on by that challenge, the class changed the insult into a battle cry, "Remember the button!" With this slogan on their lips and in their hearts, they downed the sophomore class in the annual tug-of-war. Thus, having asserted their superiority and consequently their authority, the class now was organized. It began to click as a unit. A spark of intelligence began to flicker in the group. Professors were amazed. Their heads were seen to pop out of the various cubicles into which they had disappeared many years before. The old superstition that the darkened holes were catacombs was broken; they turned out to be department offices.

The Class of the Renaissance (for that's what they were known as now) contributed much to the rebirth of the school. Scholasticism rose higher than it had ever been before. The class of '42 brought to the University men that made us what we are today — "A College of Champions." Records were broken in track, and conference winning teams were turned out in basketball, football and wrestling.

Nor was the class without its glamour. All sorts of queens blossomed in this great body, almost to the point where they had to create events to crown them all. "Appeal" so electrified the air that Severance parlor took on the appearance of a fraternity club room.

The class of '42 was one of artistic temperament. The dramatics department began the very year this class entered, and not only drew its material from these students, but has achieved its greatest success during this class's regime. The Cue flourished along with the individual writers who made it an outstanding contribution. The class took on personality by the works of various poets and outstanding musicians whom it nourished to maturity in its four years' growth. Its achievements have been so varied and unique that people can point to material things such as "freedom from debt," an enlarged faculty and program, and the new student lounge, and say, "Yes, that happened during the class of '42."

Junior Class History

That ambitious and talented group, the Class of 1943, has chalked up another triumphal year. Let us go back and review some of the stepping stones that have led us toward our goal.

We launched forth as freshmen on the good ship Success, with such first-rate seamen as Benny Fitzpatrick at the helm, Liz Mohrman the second in command, Frederick Silkworth as keeper of the treasury, and Phyllis Pepoff as keeper of the log. For our legal affairs we had Jake Ohanesian and Grace Herrmann represent us in the Student Council.

Highlights on our first voyage were John Kanavas in wrestling proficiency, Emil Lussow and Bob Sellergren on the gridiron and the basketball floor, our three cheerleaders — Jan Harken, Peg Skinner and Phil Pepoff—and a host of others.

On our second journey we again placed that experienced captain, Ben Fitzpatrick, in charge, and again Phyllis Pepoff as log keeper, besides giving responsibilities to Ross MacAskill as first mate, and Ellen Adamek as treasurer. Grace Herrmann and Robert MacAskill were elected our student council representatives.

On our third, and still more bountiful journey, we embarked on the bounding waves with the same veteran officers on deck as on our sophomore voyage. Then there were Lussow, Sellergren, Rickert and Kanavas still leading in athletics with a substantial crew to back them up.

One of our feminine crewmates, Peppy Pepoff, was elected to reign as homecoming queen.

DeLite May and Wilbert Beeners proved to be excellent dramatists, handing in an especially fine performance in Thunder Rock.

Our same three cheerleaders continued giving their zest to the school spirit with ever-increasing results.

Many of our number hold down positions in the a cappella choir, the orchestra, and band.

Yes, we were showered with laurels again!

We have covered much territory and have had success and pleasure in doing it. Already we are planning for our fourth and final journey with much eagerness and anticipation, and if we have as good sailing as we have had in the past, we shall have had the most prosperous and happy years of good weather as any sailor would dare to wish for. Here's to 1943!

Sophomore Class

When the first Japanese bomb questioned the integrity of democratic ideals, it also challenged the fortitude of every American youth. In that light, the sophomore class has been assimilated prematurely into the lofty legions of thinking men. Thus . . .

Tossing all historical procedure to the four winds, and dispensing with all chronological order, we, the sophomore class, present ourselves and our leaders:

Ray Kuefler, truly a representative athlete, was president of our class in '42. He was assisted by Mary Ellen Hesse, vice-president, and Betty Temp, secretary-treasurer. Our Student Council representatives were Norine Cook and Paul Ipsen. Our class president truly expresses the spirit of the sophomores with these words: "The class of '44 is both physically and mentally equipped to play its part in the program of educational preparedness, and the world may rest assured that we will do our share."

Something of the vitality of our second year in college will always remain with us as we recall:

Feutz and Perkins presenting the Lemon Jr.; Lossin, Eldie Werkheiser, Toomey and Ray Kuefler shining as varsity footballers; two minutes and seventeen seconds winning the tug of war; the splendor of Severance decked out as a Yankee Clipper, taking the homecoming prize; the word "wolf" coming into its own.

But we can not forget how September, 1940, saw these same students — on their advent into the "Dubuque Family" — sporting green caps and promptly being put into their places. We chose as our leaders that year Tom Landise, president; Chuck Feutz, vice-president, and Donna Lee, secretary-treasurer. Elsie Jansen and Bruce Freeman were our Student Council representatives.

Highlights of the frosh year: utter submission following defeat in the annual tug-of-war; gathering debris for the big blaze; continually ringing the bell for Spartan victories; gay fun decorating Stef-fens hall; and, almost symbolic of fresh-man abandon, was the sight of Chuck Feutz working under the Lemon while clad in a new camel hair coat. Thus . . .

May the world witness a transition from the carefree days of youth into the grim reality of today. And may the world also find us crystallizing our philosophy of living with the tempo of its distracting tune.

Freshman Class

With the fall of 1941 there came to the campus a group of industrious and enthusiastic freshmen. After the long, tedious tests, we relaxed our weary minds and forgot our troubles by attending the traditional freshman mixer. Because we lost the tug-of-war to the experienced sophomore team, we were compelled to wear our green hats until Thanksgiving.

When we had been here long enough to make acquaintances and to look over prospects, our class officers were elected. We vested the responsibilities in Harold Johnson, president; James Jolly, vice-president, and Dorothy Dittman, secretary-treasurer. We were represented capably bly in the Student Council by Alys Peterson and Phil Infelise.

In athletics the freshmen gave much worthwhile support to the football, basketball, and wrestling teams, such freshmen as Jim Jolly, George Benck, Pete Gordinier and Bob Daykin carrying the Spartan colors with no little honor in their respective activities. The girls were up to the usual freshman standard, too, the volleyball team taking that championship above all other classes.

An impressive number of freshmen in the a cappella choir, the band, and the orchestra show that we possess a great deal of musical ability. Everyone was well pleased with the freshmen's presentation of the John Colton and Carlton Miles play, Nine Pine Street, Denise Henneger and Kenneth Creswick carrying the leads in that production.

Nor was journalism omitted from the list of freshman activities; this year the staff of the Cue included eleven students from this class.

Finally, we of the class of 1941 promise to make the University proud of us by striving for bigger and better accomplishments in all phases of school activity.

Seminary Activities

The Theological Seminary of the University of Dubuque, in its ninetieth year, rejoiced when, on November 11, 1941, Dr. Frederick Bronkema was installed as professor of systematic theology. But it experienced a tremendous loss when Dr. John A. Garber, professor of religious education and homiletics, assumed pastoral duties at the Presbyterian Church of Madeira, Ohio.

Under the leadership of Dean C. Vin White, the faculty and students began the school year on September 15 with the prayer and hope of being Christian beacon lights in a darkening world.

The officers elected for the Fellowship Council were: John Hodgson, president; Warren Johnson, vice-president, and Calvin Willemssen, secretary-treasurer. The committee chairmen appointed were: David Gelzer, devotional; Howard Strong, fellowship, and Emmett Goetschius and Edward Cass, recreational. Daily chapel services, led by students, faculty and guest speakers, as well as daily prayer groups, were an integral part of our experience.

At fellowships, which met once a month, the faculty and students enjoyed Christian brotherhood, eating together and listening to prominent speakers. Physical needs were taken care of by weekly workouts in the gym, participation in intramural sports, and horse-shoe, tennis and ping-pong tournaments.

E. Stanley Jones was the principal speaker at our largest annual pastors' conference held in November. Two communion services were held during the year. The first, according to tradition, was a candlelight service at ten o'clock the last night before Christmas vacation; the other took place on Holy Thursday.

Over fifty per cent of the students had regular churches. Others aided in church services, took part in young people's work, taught Sunday school classes, and conducted religious radio programs.

Realizing that we have fallen short in many ways, we are nevertheless deeply grateful for this year's many rich and lasting religious experiences.

Campus Life

Dear Diary . . .

AUGUST 11, 1941. Monday. As I visited the U. this morning all sorts of memories of last year on the campus popped into my mind. Even though I met few of the students, seeing the places where certain events took place was enough stimulus for recollection.

One of these places was the gym which houses memories of the exciting times Beanie and I had watching last year's basketball team win a conference championship and the thrill I experienced at seeing the May Fete. Hilda Balster's queenly loveliness and the clever play, Pierrot Poltroon, all came back to me even in that empty gym.

The Commons is another place on the campus that holds a lot of pleasant memories. When I saw the new trophy case again—a gift of last year's grads—I remembered the day of its dedication, the day of Class Day exercises.

Work on the student lounge-to-be is stepping mighty brisk. I stood in the hall and looked out the windows and saw a checkerboard of planks stretched between the office and the old girls' lounge. It doesn't look like much to my un-carpenter eye, but at least seems perfectly huge, which is hopeful. I took a snapshot of the maze anyway, and then took refuge in the Goat's for one of Elmer's peppermint cones — ah, bliss!

SEPTEMBER 10, 1941. Wednesday. It seemed grand to be back on the campus again, but a little unfamiliar, too. The place was simply swarming with little strangers—freshman time again. My day was full of them; helped them unpack, get settled and get acquainted with others.

SEPTEMBER 14, 1941. Sunday. A good sermon by Rev. White and inspiring music by the chapel choir (no summer rustiness there) made the day start out just right. This afternoon the freshman girls were guests at a tea in the parlor of Severance Hall, the four sororities on the campus being hostesses. During the afternoon each president was introduced and then the honorary members presented. The atmosphere was quiet and cultured and I enjoyed seeing the new girls blossom out in their correct afternoon tea costumes and equally correct manners, with just the right amount of tact and poise.

SEPTEMBER 19, 1941. Friday. The sophomores, of course, won the annual tug-of-war this afternoon,

AUGUST 11, 1941: ". . . and the thrill I experienced seeing the May Fete. Hilda Balster's queenly loveliness . . . came back to me."

AUGUST 11, 1941:
*"It doesn't look like
 much to my un-
 carpenter eye."*

so: Green caps 'til Thanksgiving! The picnic supper on the lawn behind the Commons was more than compensation for the defeat of the freshmen, though.

Then tonight I went to the President's Reception. Dr. and Mrs. Welch headed the receiving line which included Miss Aitchison, Dr. and Mrs. Zuker, Dean and Mrs. George, Dean White, and Miss Bock. It was fun to watch the freshmen realize suddenly that this college faculty was different and it was a real pleasure tonight to see how friendly a relationship was begun as soon as they began to get acquainted. The Commons was lovely. The candelabra and garden flowers looked beautiful, and even the punch and cookies were arranged attractively. The whole evening was Culture, Good Taste and Friendliness.

OCTOBER 11, 1941. Saturday. Last night at 7:30 p. m. we had our annual bonfire and pep meeting at Kane Heights and was it peppy! The frosh did a wonderful job with the fire this year—several of them even stayed up all night to guard it. Real homecoming enthusiasm was running high and a snake dance finally led the way off the field, the intention being to walk downtown and along Main—but detours through such places as the Goats dwindled the ranks until the plan was discarded.

This afternoon at one o'clock Beanie and I went down to see the parade. The sororities and frats really outdid themselves with floats—some for beauty, others for humor. And class—no less than two bands, Postville High as well as our own! In the game with Iowa Wesleyan at two o'clock we won by a wide enough margin—18 to 2—to make it a good homecoming game. Bucky Schiers, Chuck Feutz, Bob Selbergren and Ken Cox really gave the UD crowd some thrills during the game. At the half the Postville High marching band gave a snappy performance, proving why they have gained such widespread fame.

At 6:00 p. m. we went to the banquet in the Commons. What excitement! I'd no sooner start chattering with one of the so-much-missed alums, than I'd spot another. Everyone else was buzzing around the same way.

OCTOBER 11, 1941: "Phil Pepoff was introduced . . . as homecoming queen."

OCTOBER 18, 1941: ". . . Dogpatch beauties rendered a dance (?)"

During the course of the banquet 26 awards were presented. I want to remember these, especially, so I'll jot 'em down.

Float decorating contest—Thirteen Club fraternity; Homecoming building decorating contest—Sophomores, by decorating "the great Ship Severance;" Alumni hospitality prize—First, Francis Eberhart '40, second, Robert Peterson '40, third, Ralph Zimmerman '24; Severance room decorating contest—First, Jeanne Popp and Miriam Barrett, second, Norine Cook and Merna Aitchison. Then there were gifts awarded to members of the football squad.

The main speaker of the evening was Ted Griffin of the class of 1928.

The dance later in the evening was really a success. "The Royal Knights" of Chicago furnished the music, all of them strikingly young. I suppose it was "National Defense" that put the damper on any elaborate decorations. However, the simplicity of the decorations was in very good taste. A large navy blue cloth covered with D's backed up the orchestra. Phil Pepoff was introduced at intermission as homecoming queen.

OCTOBER 18, 1941. Saturday. Today was the annual Sadie Hawkins Day (Opportunity Day to the girls). As per custom, I chased Beanie and ran and ran and ran, until he finally caught me. The Dogpatch costumes were really a scream and everyone co-operated beautifully in leaving all formality at home. And what could have been more appropriate than apple cider and pretzel sticks? "Between halves" Dogpatch beauties rendered a dance (?), and then we witnessed the wedding (mock) of the two winners of the costume contest—Dick Olsen and Gayl Roberts. Honestly, we didn't have a single sensible thought all evening.

NOVEMBER 1, 1941. Saturday. Beanie and I really enjoyed stepping out in formal style for the Interfraternity Dance tonight. The Commons was decorated in true Halloween spirit. We entered through a huge pumpkin door to find ourselves in a typical moonlight Harvest scene. Behind the orchestra—Larry Foster's—was pictured a witch riding her broomstick through the night, with a round, yellow harvest moon overhead. Everywhere we looked were black cats, cornstalks and jack-o'-lanterns. As is done each year at this dance, each of the four corners held the banner of a particular fraternity, and during the intermission each fraternity sponsored an act.

NOVEMBER 9, 1941. Sunday. At last the new lounge is open! The dedication was held this afternoon and it was officially named the Jacob Conzett Room. The beautiful oak furniture, carved tables, bright tapestry, and the abundance of easy chairs, tables, coffee tables and sofas make the room not only attractive but very practical. The lounge is completely furnished in a feudal pattern, with British oak of feudal finish. The kitchenette, radio and fireplace add the finishing touches that make this truly a wonderful addition to our college campus.

Then, this evening was the rectorial convocation. It will be a long time before I again will witness as colorful and as stately a service as this. Dr. E. Stanley Jones was installed as the second honorary rector and we felt mighty fortunate in having so great and outstanding a world citizen as he with us. St. Luke's Church was jammed almost beyond capacity with students, faculty and friends. His address was titled "Is the Christian Answer Realistic?" Of course academic display played a large part in the program, and all the members of the faculty were there as well as the Senior class. Homer Konzett led the academic procession with the mace of Adrian Van Vliet and read the mace legend.

DECEMBER 8, 1941. Monday. What an atmosphere around school! The reason — war. Everywhere there's almost constant conversation of the United States' entry into the World War II, and to concentrate on studying was practically an impossibility as far as most of us were concerned.

I don't think I'll ever forget hearing President Roosevelt request Congress to declare war against the aggressors. By 11:30 a. m. a large crowd of students had gathered in the student lounge around the radio. When the speech was announced, everybody became quiet; each one listened intently to every word that the President said, each seeming to agree heartily with every one of his conclusions.

I realize now that the history-making events of yesterday and today are going to affect drastically each one of the college students at Dubuque—including Beanie and me.

DECEMBER 12, 1941. Friday. Tonight each dorm girl invited one (or six) of the town girls to the dorm for her overnight guest (or guests). Following traditional procedure, we all went in a group to sing carols at the neighboring faculty homes. Afterwards we were royally entertained in Severance parlors. First came a Christmas story by Marguerite Walsh; then the ever-popular Night Before Christmas was dramatized with Santa Claus Dittmann causing a riot. After refreshments were served we all retired to our rooms for a slumber party, accent definitely not on slumber. Tomorrow morning they're going to serve breakfast to us in the parlor from eight to ten—and that's what I call the height of luxury! FEBRUARY 13, 1942. Friday. In spite of the date, I managed to live through this day of superstition. In fact, I even had a date with Beanie for the Steffens Hall Penny Carnival, stuffing myself with hot dogs and soda water and really tossing away Beanie's money.

We danced under the rotunda and there was so much confetti that it was almost like a wedding. I wonder if I'll ever get it all combed out of my hair.

FEBRUARY 20, 1942. Friday. The Washington Dinner-Dance that Beanie and I went to this evening was one of the leading social affairs of the school year. Decorations well in keeping with the patriotic theme of the affair consisted of a star-studded backdrop behind the orchestra—Larry Foster's—and on the walls were hatchets, flags, and silhouettes of Washington himself.

Students dressed in colonial costumes gave a lot of color to the dinner-dance, even leading a grand march into the Commons before dinner. During the banquet entertainment was provided, and somehow everything seemed special this evening.

MARCH 27, 1942. Friday. Tonight at the Junior Prom, in the center of the Commons floor, was transplanted a spring scene—green grass, budding shrubs, mossy rocks and furry bunnies. Gaily colored spring flowers and fancy sketches of rabbits decorated the walls.

Bobby Griggs' music was really smooth. His arrangement of Blues in the Night was sumpin', Diary. Junior proms always require a queen to be thoroughly successful, it seems, and we all were simply gleeful when Ben Fitzpatrick, president of the junior class, announced his class's choice for this honor, DeLite May. Both Dee and Ben led the grand march, then, followed by entertainment during intermission which consisted of piano selections by Forrest Conway and some acrobatic dancing.

FEBRUARY 20, 1942: "The Washington Dinner-Dance . . . was one of the leading social affairs of the school year."

Student Council

Early in the school year each class elected two of its members to serve on the Student Council. The seniors chose Dorothy Laskey and Gail Bailey; the juniors, Grace Herrmann and Robert MacAskill. The sophomore class was represented by Norine Cook and Paul Ipsen, while the freshman members were Alys Peterson and Phil Infelise. The seminary students this year were, for the first time, allowed to send one of their number, Robert Arends, to the council meetings.

President of the group was Homer Konzett, who was elected by the entire student body. Other Student Council officers were chosen by the members of the group and included Robert MacAskill, vice-president Gail Bailey, treasurer, and Norine Cook, secretary.

Following its customary plan, the council sponsored several important social events throughout the year, the first of which was a student reception on November 10 in the Konzett Lounge, with Dr. E. Stanley Jones, our honorary rector, as guest of honor. December 19 was the date for the formal Christmas dance, the "Snow Ball," and when the semester exams were a part of the past, the annual "Flunkers' Fling" was held. The purchase of a phonograph and records with which to provide music for the dateless, informal dances which were held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the gym was another council project.

Members of the Student Council took full charge of a school-wide Red Cross drive late in December, and by soliciting each student individually, raised approximately one hundred dollars for this cause.

At regular intervals the council took charge of student assemblies, providing varied entertainment for the student body. In many other ways this group strove constantly to serve faithfully the students whom they represented.

STEFFENS HALL COUNCIL

To carry out its objectives, the Steffens Hall Dormitory Association elects annually to its Executive Council seven students from different sections of the dormitory. The purpose of the association is to stimulate fellowship and responsibility among the residents and to maintain high standards of conduct.

Council members this year were Walter Fosha, president; Leroy Loats, vice-president; Bruce Bryant, secretary; George Swalve, treasurer, and George Zibritosky, Bill Riedel and Jake Ohanesian, members-at-large.

The fourth annual penny carnival was again sponsored by this organization. Proceeds from this affair were used for general repairs and improvements in the dormitory.

SEVERANCE HALL HOUSE COUNCIL

Severance Hall House Council is a self-governing body chosen by the women living in that dormitory to represent them in student-faculty relations. This body strives to maintain a high standard of college life and has as one of its chief concerns the desire that dormitory life contribute something to the vital experience of every girl living there.

Orienting new students, enforcing house rules and promoting various social activities are the duties of the council. At regular monthly meetings of the dormitory residents, the council presents something of interest to the girls, such as the annual freshman fashion show, a special speaker, or a demonstration on beauty, health or etiquette.

Members of this year's council included Dorothy Laskey, president; Lucille Woodrow, vice-president; Barbara Geach, treasurer; Jeannette Harken, secretary, and Viola Tibbitts, Vera Martindale and Carol Reemtsma, members-at-large.

YWCA

In keeping with its aim of developing the spiritual, physical, mental and social traits of all its members, the YWCA formulated a program of wide variety in 1941 and 1942. The program was designed to stimulate friendship and co-operative activities for all girls of all types, ages and races; to create an awareness of the place of Christian women in contemporary national and international conditions, and to develop a working Christian growth — both for the group and the individual.

Over 100 members participated actively under the able guidance of President Marguerite Walsh and her cabinet. Other cabinet officers were Joan Curtis, vice-president; Grace Herrmann, secretary, and Elizabeth Powers, treasurer. Faculty advisers were Miss Maurine Happ, Mrs. Samuel George and Mrs. Donald Eyssen. During the first semester Mrs. John Garber also was an adviser.

Cabinet members having charge of the varied activities were Betty Blondin and Donna Lee, membership; Vera Martindale and Eloise Driscoll, publicity; Claire Schwanebeck and Eleanor Wise, service; Ruth Phillips and Laura Jo Goldsmith, social; Dorothy Papke, historian; Virginia Winskell, devotions; Merna Aitchison, music, and Dorothy Drake and Norine Cook, Gospel Team representatives.

Programs for the year included a book review tea, a discussion on good taste in clothing, an evening Christmas program, a ceremony describing "YWCA Candles In a World Blackout," and a round table discussion on "The Effect of the War On Our Morals, Marriages and Careers."

Among the annual activities were the distribution of Thanksgiving baskets to Du-buque's needy, the doll-dressing contest to prepare Christmas cheer for unfortunate children, the providing of a Christmas tree for the new student lounge, the sponsoring of the all-school Christmas banquet and nativity pageant, the May Fete, and several all-school roller skating parties. The YW also co-operated with the YMCA in sponsoring a freshman picnic at Eagle Point Park during the Freshman Days.

The Young Men's Christian Association of the University of Dubuque is a fellowship of students and faculty members who, by study, worship and service, strive to understand Christ and His spirit and endeavor to serve their fellowmen on the campus, in the nation and in the world.

During Freshman Days the YM assisted in orienting new students to dormitory and campus life. As a part of this program, they joined with the YWCA in giving a picnic at Eagle Point Park. Later these two organizations sponsored a roller skating party. During October the YM sponsored a "Sadie Hawkin's Day" dance in the University gymnasium.

As a service project, the YM, co-operating with the YW, distributed Thanksgiving baskets to the needy of the city. This year, for the first time, this organization sponsored a basketball team, representing the University church in the city league.

Officers elected to lead the fifty members during the year were LeRoy Loats, president; Fred Siekmann, vice-president; Bob MacAskill, secretary, and George Swalve, treasurer. Assisting them were the additional cabinet members—Alton Newland, membership; Dick Olson, social; and Larry Tooker, athletic director. Dr. John A. Garber served as faculty adviser during the first semester.

Twelve seniors and two juniors had their biographies printed in 1941-42 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges this year. This being one of the greatest honors an upperclassman on the Dubuque campus can achieve, these students deserve rightly the congratulations of their classmates.

It has been customary that each year a number of advanced students be nominated on the strength of their character, leadership, scholarship, and indications of potential benefit to business and society. Nominees for this year were David Egelhof, Dubuque; Walter Fosha, German Valley, Illinois; Grace Herrmann, Dubuque; Mabel Isebrands, Sibley, Iowa; Clifford Kruse, Dubuque; Dorothy Laskey, Evergreen Park, Illinois; Elizabeth Powers, Dubuque; Robert MacAskill, Des Moines, Iowa; William Riedel, Islip, New York; Robert Schiers, Dubuque; Marguerite Walsh, Babylon, New York, and Sargent Wright, Warren, Illinois.

Two seniors, nominated in their junior year, and therefore still listed among this group in the current year, are Homer Konzett and Ethelda Norberg, both of Dubuque.

D Club

The D Club, one of the most active organizations on the campus, has a membership of 25. To become a member of the D Club a student must have earned a major "D" either in football, basketball, track, tennis or wrestling and have attained a sophomore standing scholastically.

This group sponsors important social as well as athletic events during the school year. The homecoming dance, one of the biggest events of the year, and the annual spring party were two such events held by the D Club.

At the close of the football, basketball, and track seasons, the awards for the various sports are given out. At this time captains receive D blankets, seniors receive gold footballs, and letters are distributed. In the spring are given out special awards — one for the outstanding freshman athlete, one for the athlete with the best scholastic record, and the other for the best senior athlete.

The D Club furnishes programs for the football games and distributes schedules for all the athletic contests. The members of the D Club also serve as ushers for all athletic events.

Officers for the year were Bill Riedel, president; Jake Thoman, vice-president; Emil Lussow, secretary, and Horst P. Rickert, treasurer.

Purple Masque is an organization composed entirely of freshmen who are interested in dramatics. Its purpose is fundamentally to give its members a foundation in stage work, and to select future members for Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatic fraternity, which is the sponsor of this organization. Purple Masque members serve on stage crews, prompt, usher, and make costumes, besides acting in plays presented on the campus.

This organization sponsored the first all-freshman play, Nine Pine Street, to introduce the freshman dramatic talent to the public. Directing the play was Mabel Isebrands, a senior. The cast included Denise Henneger, Kenneth Creswick, Dorothy Dittman, Betty Dillon, Mary Strohecker, Dorothy Fowler, Keith Slothower, Carolina Everts, Leah Delfs, Roland Spiegelhalter, John Geach, Louis Shortell and Jean Kehr.

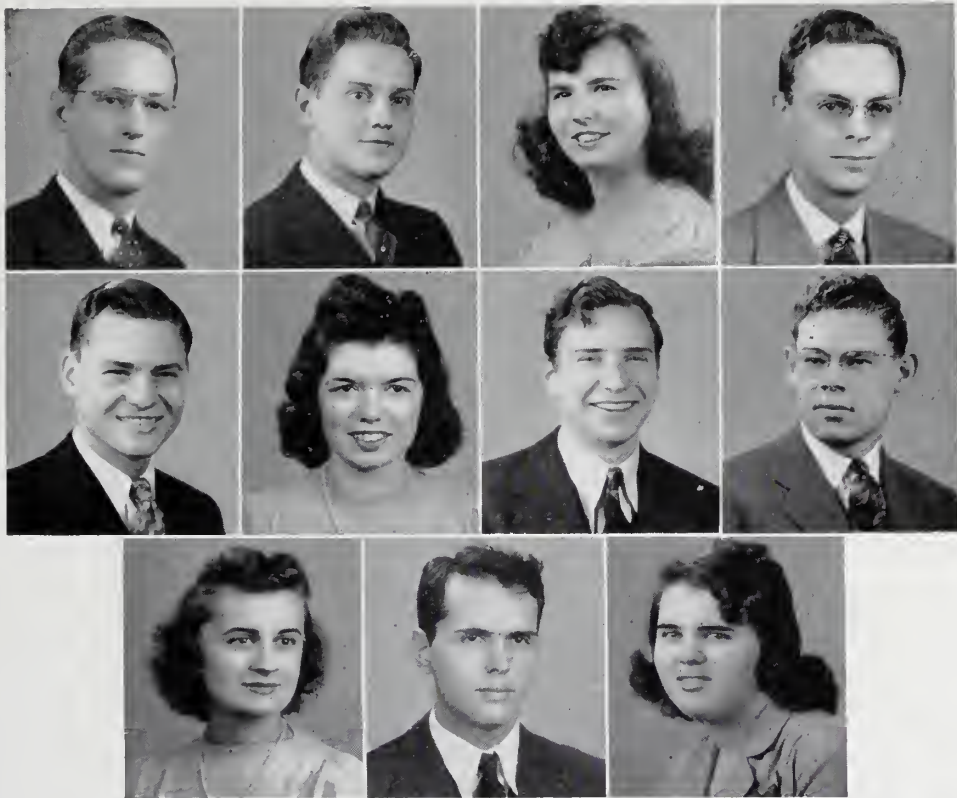

An all-school dance — the "Gym Jam Jump" — was sponsored by Purple Masque. Held on March 14, the dance was highlighted by the crowning of a "Jam Queen," Shirley Maxwell.

Officers elected for the year were Dorothy Adamek, president; Keith Slothower, vice-president, and Dorothy Fowler, secretary-treasurer. Professor Donald C. Eyssen, dramatics instructor, directed all activities.

Alpha Psi Omega

The Delta Zeta chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, has been active on this campus since 1937.

Each fall the fraternity entertains dramatically inclined freshmen and helps them become organized into the freshman dramatic group, Purple Masque. The Alpha Psi dance night which features entertainment by the various sororities and fraternities, the initiation of the neophytes, and installation of officers are social activities held during the second semester.

Last year Ted Svenssen received an "Oscar" for being voted the best actor of the year. This year awards will be given to the best actor and actress, chosen by a committee of judges.

Two changes in the little theatre have been engineered this year through this organization. One was the addition of a girls' dressing room, furnished, among other things, with a full-length mirror to facilitate costuming. The other was the improvement of the lobby, featuring paneled walls and a painting of Shakespeare, the latter by Professor Eyssen.

Officers for the year 1941-42 were Walter Fosha, president; Dorothy Laskey, vice-president; Mabel Isebrands, secretary; Wilbert Beeners, treasurer, and Betty Blondin, historian. Students eligible for membership, effective this year, were David Egelhof, Carolina Everts, Dorothy Fowler, David Gelzer, DeLite May, Jeanne Popp, Elizabeth Powers and Keith Slothower.

Omicron Mu, the home economics club affiliated with both state and national associations, was organized on our campus in the fall of 1940 for the purpose of furthering both social and educational aspects of homemaking.

This year a committee representing the club attended a state home economics convention at Iowa City, where they learned many new ideas about nutrition for defense. As a result, the club sent cookies to the "rookies" at Christmas, and candy for Valentine's Day, in return for which many notes of gratitude were received from the soldiers.

The club meets twice a month in the home economics lounge, one meeting being designated for business purposes and the other for social gatherings such as teas, dances, dinners and recreational programs. It is a tradition of the club to have a Christmas dinner party for the members and a tea dance for the a cappella choir.

The officers of the past year were Jean Humke, president; Eleanor Wise, vice-president; Mardelle Kleih, secretary-treasurer, and Jeanne Kregel, reporter. Committee chairmen were: social, Lucie Ann Godden and Laura Jo Goldsmith; program, Vera Martin-dale.

HONORARIES

Prof. Noel J. Logan    Mr. Reynold McKeown    Miss Martha Zehetner

Taken from Greek letters meaning Aeolian Club, Alpha Chi is the name of the honorary music fraternity for both men and women. Organized in June of 1941, it is the newest fraternity of its kind on the campus. Its primary objective is the promotion of fraternal feeling between instrumentalists and vocalists.

The first introductory informal gathering of Alpha Chi featured an illustrated talk on "Chant" given by the Rev. Emmett Kelly of Loras College. This speech, for example, shows the varied musical information the fraternity receives throughout the year from lecturers and performers on and off the campus.

Alpha Chi's objectives are numerous. Some have been accomplished. Many of the objectives are to be realized through the work of future student musicians. Below are listed some of the purposes of this organization:

Arrangement of senior recitals with faculty approval pertaining to programs, ushers, seating, and publicity; scheduling college musical programs on the air; arrangements for faculty recitals; encouragement of vocal and instrumental ensemble work; more opportunity for performance through informal student recitals; arrangements for guest artist appearances on the campus, especially those of graduate students.

Requirements for membership are good scholastic standing, interest, and a specified number of hours in music. The last requirement, however, may be waived upon faculty approval if a prospective member is an outstanding musician but is not intending to receive credit in music.

Zeta Sigma Pi

With the motto, "Investigation! Discussion! Action!" the Epsilon chapter of Zeta Sigma Pi, national honorary social science fraternity, has been active on the campus since 1936. Officers are installed and new members initiated at the beginning of each school year. A formal initiation ceremony was held in the commons lounge last fall to begin this year's activities.

Membership requirements constitute a minimum of ten hours in the social science department, and a high scholastic standing, a grade average not less than B in all college work being necessary. Before acceptance, each pledge must submit a paper on some phase of social science.

Zeta Sigma Pi meets twice every month. The meeting is arranged to cover several interests, including lecture, discussion, business and social features.

Officers for the year 1941-42 were Rosemary Dreazy, president; John Middents, vice-president; Frank Edwards, treasurer; DeLite May, corresponding secretary; Doreen Mao, secretary, and Dr. Clifford Fox, adviser.

Members taken in during the second semester were Merna Aitchison, Bruce Bryant, Ruth Cords, Helen Poole, Virginia Rummel and Virginia Winskell.

Faculty Club

Organized for the purpose of drawing members of the faculty closer together, this group meets once a month, semi-informally. At these meetings student, faculty, or outside talent is drawn upon for the entertainment of the day. This entertainment is arranged by the three Faculty Club officers, Dr. R. A. French, president; Prof. Paul Vail, vice-president, and Miss Maurine Happ, secretary-treasurer. At the last meeting of the year, which is usually in the form of a picnic supper, the officers of the following year are elected.

Facultette

An organization composed of the wives of University faculty members, the facultette was presided over this year by Mrs. Anson Van Eaton, president. Other officers were Mrs. Noel J. Logan, vice-president, and Mrs. C. T. Peterson, secretary-treasurer. This group meets once a month, at which time they engage in such activities as knitting and sewing for the Red Cross and sewing curtains and other similar things for the girls' dormitory. At their April meeting, the members of facultette voted for the 1942-43 officers. These are Mrs. Logan, president; Mrs. Donald C. Eyssen, vice-president, and Mrs. Wm. C. Laube, secretary-treasurer.

Alumni Association

That alumni of the University may keep in touch with each other as well as with matters concerning the school is the purpose of the Alumni Association. Once a year, at homecoming time, this organization meets at one great banquet in Peters Commons, at which time the officers for the following year are elected. The present officers are president, the Rev. G. D. F. Fisher, Seminary '21; vice-president, Eugene Siekmann, '35; secretary, Ruth Emery, '35.

A. A. U. P.

The American Association of University Professors is a national organization composed, as its name implies, of professors in universities all over the country. Dr. F. W. Kracher is chairman of the local division. This year, at the State convention, Dr. William Goldsmith was elected president of the State organization. This puts Dr. Goldsmith in charge of the local groups in the state of Iowa. Last year Dr. Herman Ficke was the state president.

Blue and White Club

This organization's membership is made up of Dubuque businessmen who are interested in the University of Dubuque, and especially in its athletic department. Members, upon joining, receive season passes to all athletic events on the campus. During the year monthly meetings are held, at which various phases of athletics are discussed, special speakers as well as musical and dramatic entertainment highlighting the programs. When athletes or teams have done outstanding work in their fields, the Blue and White Club awards medals or other small trophies to the players. The membership of Blue and White passed the 200 mark this year, with John Rider Wallis as president. At a meeting held the end of the school year, the 1942-43 officers were elected: A. L. Reed, president; Russell Deatherage, vice-president; Al Henneger, second vice-president, and John Rider Wallis, secretary-treasurer.

What wonderful weather . . . boat rides and more boat rides . . . nearly over the dam . . . such cooks as Dorothy and Vivian to prevent starvation . . . such food, such eating . . . roller skating every night with the 13'ers close at hand to keep things rolling . . . wearing shorts . . . singing Pan's repertoire of songs . . . riding to town in Dellie's truck . . . Dayk dropping her shoe into the Maquoketa while boat riding . . . Virginia and Caryl getting us up for breakfast . . . Dee and Ruth getting a slight case of sunburn . . . Tay, Jocelyn, Dayk and Kelly coming later, but enjoying every minute of it . . . Pan and Naudy washing Dieterich's face in dirty water . . . Miss Aitchison enjoying the sun . . . Come Monday — with a return trip by the way of the 13'ers . . . and boat rides, with the boys rowing for a change . . . No one wanting to go home at the end of another flunk week.

Graduation . . . with good-byes to our senior members . . . traditional gifts of bracelets for the seniors . . . farewells for the summer.

School again and plans for the future . . . scarecrows announcing the Harvest tea for the rushees . . . a farmer's party at the Y. W. barn — straw hats, barn dancing by Peppy and Ana, plus all the barnyard animals. Our date party—a hayrack ride topped with chile and pie at the cottage . . . the formal preference dinner at the Julien and the welcome of eleven members-to-be . . . pledge duties and the wearing of the traditional Delta "attire" . . . candlelight, formal vows, the singing of the Delta Phi Sigma song . . . a few tears . . . formal initiation and a formal dinner . . . our first meeting . . . a date party in the offing . . . and dreams of another glorious flunk week.

Lambda Activities

"Anamosa, here we come," was the cry of 21 eager girls as, once again, we set out for our cozy little log cabin for the annual flunk week.

The first night: serenading with Dot's rendition of The Man That Comes to Our House . . . the results of five o'clock golf tournaments only dripping shoes — and empty stomachs . . . Slug's frantic search for lost golf balls — and the good ones we found.

The country club, proving an ideal spot for long sessions, came in handy the morning Slug and Sally got breakfast.

"Ma" Logan had the right idea when she brought along a mattress — especially after a day spent in the sun.

Heidi's dog became the guardian of our group during our nocturnal visits . . . Esther's ability to fix hair an indispensable feature . . . our Sunday morning church and our decision not to take up a collection . . . the last meal prepared by cooks Gould and Maxwell proving better than expected — with even a color scheme.

Our May breakfast at Nesler's where the intramural sing trophy was presented formally — and our three graduates, Putnam, Sinning and Bartholomew, who received gifts . . . the Rose Ceremony for our lovely new honorary, Mrs. Tjaden.

Summer reunion in form of a farewell party for Helen.

Starting the new year off with a lavender tea for our honoraries . . . weekend at Annie Wieland's really fun — included transportation en masse . . . Rushing season began with a tea at Fox Haven with serenades by Sally, Peggy and Mary. "We're in the army now," quoth rushees as they received questionnaires for our draft party . . . The Halloween dance at the Y.—Chili supper at Mercer's with Mike and Melinda reigning . . . Preference dinner at the Julien . . . Hell week — our glamour girls suffering through the week without makeup and dates ("casual" meetings) . . . The dinner in the Indian Room with our pledges receiving all the "markings" of Lambdas.

Esther H.'s surprise of a box of candy, announcing her engagement . . . Finally receiving our new members at formal initiation in the Gold Room — with roses as the theme and the rose ceremony of initiation — followed by an evening of dancing, ending another year of Lambda life, and looking forward to another year of bigger and better times and never-to-be-forgotten fun and friendship.

Happy memories for the Zeta Phi sorority remain from this past year . . . let's look back, see. . . .

Another spring rolled around for the Zetas . . . the dance at the Crystal; those beautiful formals. Lemon trouble . . . ending up with soft lights . . . sweet music . . . Ginny's tap dancing . . . Marge at the piano.

Flunk week ended the year's activities with cries of "Who has the extra blanket?" . . . "Ummm chicken for dinner" . . . "Who is going to get the next bucket of water?" . . . bonfires at night . . . yodels echoed from everywhere . . . "Oooo! my sunburn!" from Janet and Vera . . . "Backwater Gracie"—quite a ride that was . . . and finally a swell canoe trip back up the "Ole River" to Dubuque.

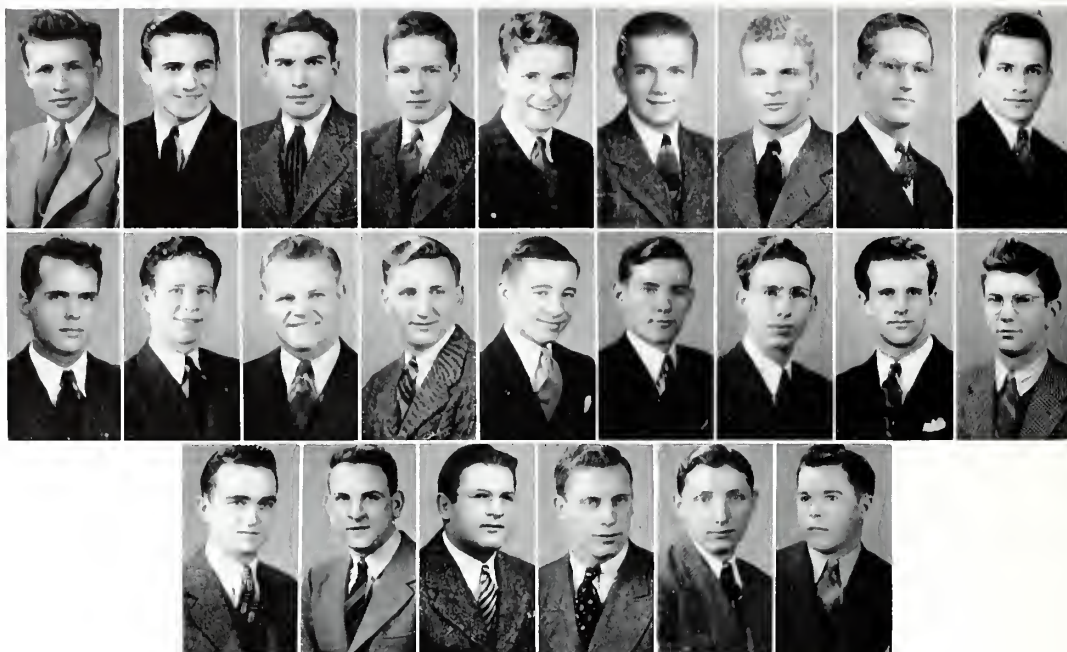

Fall again . . . Prexy Demkier in for the year . . . Intersorority tea . . . scavenger hunt for a date party, ending at the Julien . . . progressive tea in English style . . . the "Seminary with Madonna's art class, President (?) Hesse—and even courses in flying. . . Ending the rushing season at preference dinner with eleven new members-to-be . . . "Blue Champagne" . . . .

Pledging . . . entertainment at the pledges' "Hell Party" . . . popcorn . . . what fun heckling . . . chocolate pie under the rotunda. Pledge proctors: Ethel, Janet, Elsie . . . but they survived—true Spartans. Informal initiation . . . then formal initiation . . . traditional breakfast and ceremony . . . dinner in the evening . . . at the "Ice Follies" . . . quartet of "Blues in the Night" . . . shouts of "FIRE" from "Saint" and "Sally" . . . Pete's and Denise's "forecast" . . . then came the happy day—a delightful surprise—Ginny and Bob's wedding. . . .

Thus ended another wonderful year in which goals had been attained . . . and the future years promise to bring new faces . . . happy hearts . . . and new horizons for the Zeta Phi sorority.

Athenaeon Activities

Three dominant elements which the Athenaeon fraternity exerts upon its members are of a social, intellectual and fraternal nature. The American college with its mixture of types offers valuable opportunities for character formation. Likewise, the Athenaeon fraternity, fostering more intimate and more intense relations, is an ideal setup for correcting character flaws.

Marks of distinction in all realms of college activity—music, drama, oratory, athletics and scholarship—have been earned by the Athenaeans. Because the school's championship athletic teams have, as a nucleus, many of the Athenaeans, the Inter-Fraternity Deans' Athletic Trophy has become a cherished possession of the fraternity.

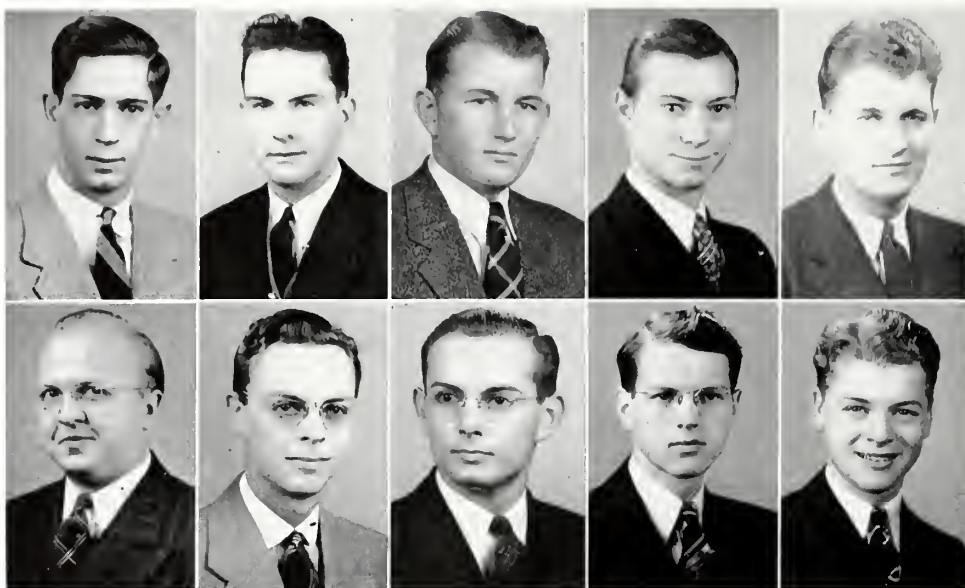

Fireworks for the year were on display when the pledges became acquainted with the "board of education." The fraternity believes that such an impression is a prerequisite for the betterment of the individual and therefore for the group as a whole. One of the highlights of the school year occurred when the Athenaeans had their annual spring formal dinner dance.

Circumstances of accidental association and separation may govern the friendship but not the loves which unite brother with brother. Always there is a commonalty of opinion on certain of the deep and fundamental things of the spirit. Founded on a clear conception of the meaning and purpose of life, the fraternal bond premises every meeting and every renewal of acquaintance with agreement on the intimate and personal motives and ideals.

With the wearing of the same badge is a pledge and surety of a sincere mutual interest and a valid introduction to the most delicate subject. This is one of the differences between a relationship among fraternity brothers and that among those who are simply classmates.

Under the highly capable and satisfactory leadership of President Walter Fosha and his staff of officers, the Athenaeans have enjoyed another banner year. Amidst changing conditions and circumstances the Athenaeon motto, "Brothers Tried and True," remains steadfast.

- Lowell Johnson* . Soldier boy with room so neat, you will get enough to eat!
Ham and pork and beef you'll get; cost will be a ring, you bet.
- Forrest Conway* . Hands so nimble, hands so quick, grand pianos they can lick.
Sounds so perfect — blue and hot — could be Duchin. But it's not.
- Howard Mellang* . Snappy dresser, quite the sheik, sells a hundred shoes a week;
Has a girl friend — no one's sister; he spends all his time a-Kisner.
- Dewitt Rulon* . New York born, quite far from here, always has a joke to cheer.
Was a nurse in white one June; knew a nurse there he did "spoon."
- Virgil Sharp* . . Short but handsome is this lad, quite enough to make girls glad.
Gets around a bit we learn; has not cash, but "love to burn."
- Milton Mussebl* . Plays the horn with great technique. All must laugh when he does speak.
Spends his time on North Grandview; they first fight, then "bill and coo."
- LeRoy Loats* . . Man of God he'll be some day; every church for him will pray.
He's so tall and big and strong — "Pray," says he, "or get the 'gong'."
- Ed Doty* . . . Rushed him to a small white room, had to "cut" or see his doom.
When he woke, he saw a paintin'; scared was he — thought it was Satan.
- Bob Spielman* . Wrestles on the UD squad, has for you a friendly nod.
Thought he'd try a car to race; lost — and landed on his face.
- Yorke Gunn* . . Learned to fly a year ago; drove a truck for Genz, you know.
Army called, and he did "lam"; now he flies for Uncle Sam.
- Larry Palmer* . . Spends his time 'tween shoes and books. Find he's not just what he looks—
Hopes to rival Hemingway (none will live to see that day!)
- James Wright* . . Plans for this and that were his; Wright he was, and right he is.
He was always in there tryin'; now his job's to "keep 'em flyin'."
- Carlton Ibrcke* . This smart lad is bright in lab. Girl-less, he finds life is drab.
Was our chief for half a year; love will find him — spring is here.

Phi O Activities

Phi Omicron forever
Phi Omicron for me,
For time can never sever
Bonds of fraternity.

Throughout the past year, Phi Omicron Fraternity has held a position of leadership in fraternal, social, and academic campus life, with each of its members participating enthusiastically.

Wintergreen and rubbing alcohol eased the effects of the long canoe trip down the Father of Waters from Lefty's to Shawandasse. . . . Nile Mile Slough was the scene of Bob Montgomery's first swimming lesson as he attempted to prove his prowess as a canoeist. French Canadians had nothing on Frank Sass or Alice Ohlsen . . . really shook the corn right off the cob at a barn dance back in the hills the first night. . . . No less than a gallon of skeeter lotion was applied by Smitty, Mac, Theodore and Ubangi to ward off the attack of droves of mosquitoes that rived in size Paul Bunyan's Blue Ox. . . . The next two days were really a kind of Utopia, lounging at the Zeta camp and restful basking in the sun . . . nightly forays to Frentress . . . marshmallows 'round the campfire . . . serenading on the water . . . all were a part of an unforgettable experience. . . .

Then the last lap of the journey back to the Point . . . with the Flying Dutchman manned by Fuerste and Geiser reaching port hours before the rest. . . .

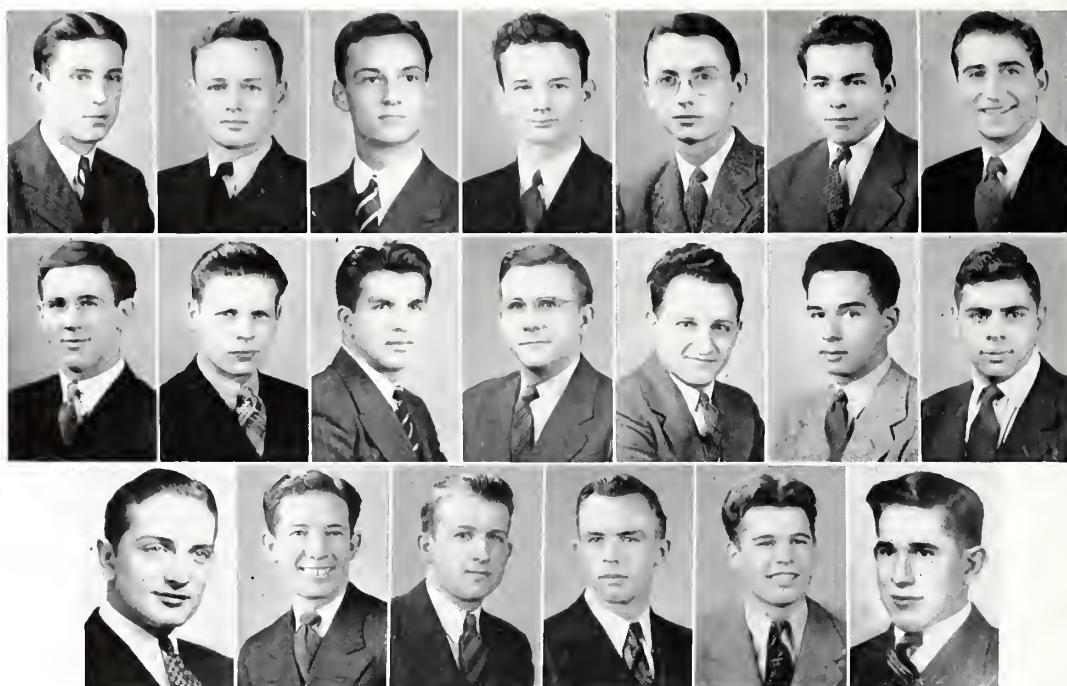

The annual get-together at Grandview Park precipitated this year's activities. No doubt the new actives will remember the treasure hunt at Eagle Point Park . . . red hot Mexican chile in the Indian room and their first impressions of objective fraternal life. A few weeks later, the second party was held in Fuerste's Rumpus Room. The uncertainties of the pledge season were terminated with the progressive dinner . . . already viscious appetites were whetted at Baumgartner's and shortly were satisfied at McKeown's bountiful table on Highway 20 . . . and the gracious Zeta girls serving as hostesses. Mrs. Montgomery served the dessert.

Then came the preference dance at the Julien with the theme "Keep 'Em Flying."

In keeping with the present period of national uncertainty, Phi Omicron Fraternity believes that only a Christian outlook on life, coupled with an intelligent foresight, can bring the light of fraternal sanity to the world . . . to this end we dedicate our college years.

"13" Club Activities

Paralleling the rapid growth of the school's enrollment, it was only natural that the 13 Club should expand its select group. Hence, after a vigorous and successful 1940-41 rushing season, fourteen new members, each of recognized 13 Club caliber, were inducted into the "Order of the Cat."

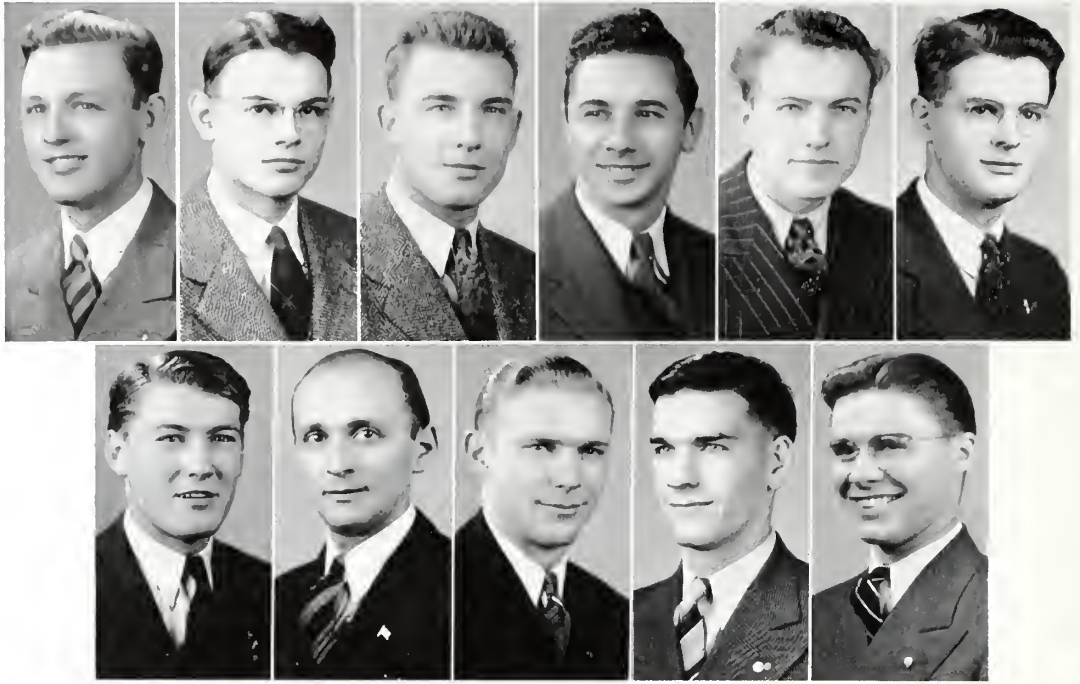

The fraternity immediately moved smoothly into its program for the remainder of the year. Several parties, date and stag, served to round out the fraternity's social activities. By virtue of its record in the interfraternity tournament, the 13's demonstrated an athletic prowess which indicates future leadership in this field.

With the approach of spring, thoughts and plans were focused on that most enjoyable of fraternity traditions—the annual flunk week outing. When the appointed time arrived, equipment was joyously packed and the 13's headed for Camp O Delhi — and neighboring territory. All the elements of camping — swimming, boating, hiking, sunning, sleeping, and eating — were enjoyed to the utmost, as well as frequent visits to Manchester, the Delta camp, and Delhi for skating, dancing, and "other activities." . . . All too soon the time for leaving was at hand; the departure was indeed one of regret.

Returning in the fall, the frat immediately formulated plans for the rushing season. Prospective members were entertained at a series of parties. Then with the arrival of the pledge season and Hell week, heretofore ornamental paddles began active service. Several pledges, having successfully passed rigorous tests and "battled the unseen foe," were inducted into the fraternity.

Despite the accelerated academic schedule, the usual program of events was maintained and the frat endeavored to prove its abilities — scholastic and athletic — throughout the remainder of the year.

Chi Alpha Activities

The basic purpose of this organization is to bind together in a fellowship of work, study, and worship, undergraduate college students who have chosen for themselves the Gospel ministry, or other phases of Christian work, and encourage others to give full consideration to the claims of these fields.

This has indeed been a banner year for Chi Epsilon Phi. This organization was started in 1937 through the influence of President Welch and Dean George. Its first president was Walter Soboleff. After struggling along for many years, Chi Epsilon Phi formed a new chapter at Hanover College, Hanover, Indiana, and became a national fraternity.

This year the local organization opened negotiations with Chi Alpha of Missouri, a like fraternity, looking forward to a merger between the two groups. In November a delegation was sent to Hanover College to complete plans for our union with Chi Alpha. At this meeting a new ritual, constitution and name were drawn up, the name being Chi Alpha Omega, Christ First and Last. At this meeting, Dubuque chapter was honored by having Leonard Walls elected as first grand president. This is the first registered national ministerial fraternity.

The most important highlight of this year was the initiation ceremony and the banquet in honor of the merger. Preceding the initiation, Dean White led us in a communion service which was most impressive. Following this the pledges were taken into the fraternity as active members. At dinner that same evening the fraternity held a banquet in Peters Commons in honor of the merger. Those presented on the program besides the new members were Reuben Tjaden and Cal Willemssen, alumni; John Middents, local president; Leonard Walls, grand president, and C. Vin White, advisor.

Chi Alpha Omega now looks ahead to years of fruitful activity and fine fellowship.

Gospel Team

This organization, an extension of the YWCA and the YMCA, has as its members students who are willing to carry the Gospel message to others. Here students have the opportunity to express and to utilize their convictions about Christianity.

The student directors of this year's activities were Dorothy Drake, Norine Cook, and Wilbert Beeners. Dr. John A. Garber was the faculty adviser.

Messages of cheerfulness and inspiration have been brought by the Gospel Team to the patients of Sunny Crest Sanatorium and to the transients at the City Mission. These messages were in the form of word and music.

Student Volunteers

Objectives upon which the program of the Student Volunteers is formulated are: to disseminate missionary intelligence; to sustain a feeling of oneness of purpose with the missionaries in service; to lead the members into a fuller appreciation of the present missionary program of the church; to share in intercessory prayer for the world work of missionaries and the people whom they serve; to challenge the students with the needs of the missionary fields of today; and to engage in missionary activity as the opportunity presents itself.

Officers for the year were Wilbert Beeners, president; Clara Pickering, vice-president; and Norine Cook, secretary-treasurer. Dr. John A. Garber served as adviser.

Religious Education Fellowship

This organization, which consists of religious education majors, has several aims. They are: to foster fellowship among students who intend to devote their lives to Christian education; to provide for a group which can discuss certain factors of the work of the religious educator not fully covered in class or texts; to guide and inspire the members with a sense of the vocational value of the educational ministry of the church; and to cultivate a fervent spirit and desire to live in the way of the Master Teacher.

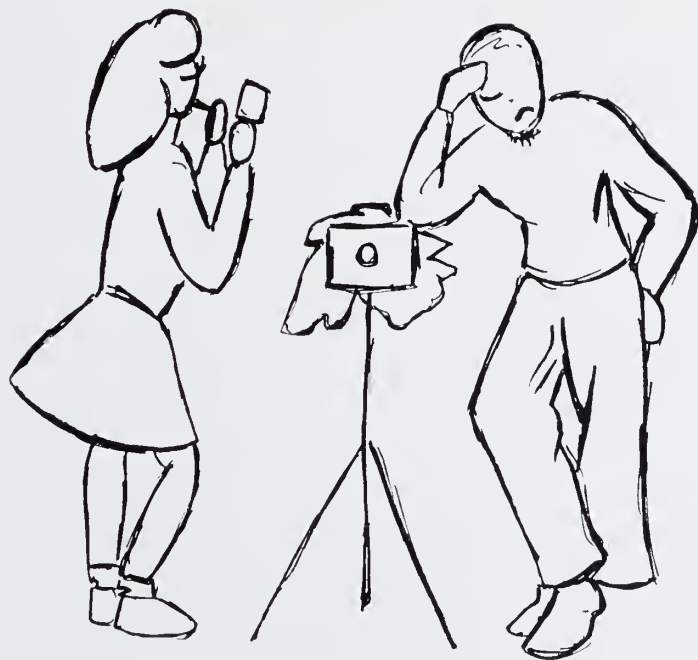

Officers for this year were Dorothy Drake, chairman; Esther Hegland, vice-chairman; and Clara Pickering, secretary-treasurer. Dr. John A. Garber was the faculty adviser.

Lutheran Students' Association

The Lutheran Students' Association was founded two years ago through the combined efforts of Lutheran students on the campus and others interested in the plan. Although relatively small, the LSA has been an active organization. This past year it has provided both religious and social activities for its members, including regular Monday evening Bible studies, attendance of LSA conventions, carolling at Christmas, an annual banquet, a treasure hunt, and a steak fry on its program.

Officers for the year were Vivian Strand, president; Karl Ulrich, vice-president; Hildegard Salzmann, secretary, and Dave Egelhof, treasurer. Miss Clarice Strand was faculty adviser.

Activities

Presenting a cross-section of student and faculty thought and talent to Dubuqueland radio listeners, Dubuque's University of the Air, the University daily radio program, went into its third season of broadcasting this year with a new staff, remodeled equipment and a revised program. The broadcast was heard daily over radio station WKBB from 4:00 to 4:15 p. m.

The radio staff was headed this year by LaMar Jones, program director and announcer, with Courtland Johannsen and Keith Slothower as the assistant engineers. The new equipment, a control panel built by director Jones, added to the quality of the program.

This year the programs were opened by organ, piano, violin, and University band recordings of the Alma Mater. New to this year's schedule were these musical introductions for each of the different programs.

Radio

On Monday's program Dr. Herman S. Ficke, head of the department of English, reviewed books, gave some pertinent facts concerning English literature, and discussed literary efforts of Dubuqueland writers. On Tuesdays, Mrs. William Goldsmith of the home economics department gave talks on nutrition in national defense. Wednesday's program featured religion in the news, given by the Rev. C. Vin White, dean of the Theological Seminary. Thursday's program was presented by various members of the music department under the direction of Prof. Noel J. Logan. Friday's program featured Dr. John A. Garber and Dean White who presented a Sunday school lesson.

The Cue

Crystallizing the knowledge of the previous staffs in the 6-year history of THE CUE, the 1941-42 student newspaper staff published a paper superior enough to merit nationwide honors from the Associated Collegiate Press in that body's annual official poll.

At the national A.C.P. convention in St. Louis in November an informal group of editors from forty states rated THE CUE the best paper in its class on a basis of artistic layout, headlines, and make-up. The editor was a delegate to the meeting.

Other highlights of the publication year included the personal appearance of Bob Feller, major league baseball pitcher who was in Dubuque, to accept the honorary sports editorship of THE CUE. At the same time Rex Smith, international editor of metropolitan editions, accepted the honorary editorship.

The paper was published bi-weekly by a student staff headed by Klyph Kruse, arts senior, as editor-in-chief, and Dorothy Laskey, arts senior, as business manager. Gene Gratz, sophomore, acted as managing editor, while other editorial posts changed hands several times.

During the course of the year THE CUE was exchanged each issue with over 100 colleges and universities including Texas, Minnesota, Dartmouth, and Nebraska universities. Papers were exchanged with schools in every state of the Union, plus Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii, Uruguay, the Virgin Islands, and the Union of South Africa.

The Key

This yearbook is the project of the junior class which elected the editor-in-chief, Claire Schwanebeck, and the business manager, Paul Ukena, following the first open campaign in the history of the school for these positions last spring. Other positions on the staff were filled through appointments made by the editor and business manager.

In addition to the publishing of this yearbook, the new KEY office was a project of this year's staff. The office, situated in the basement of Steffens Hall, was made available at the end of the first semester to the students working on the book. A working budget of approximately half that of preceding years was the maximum with which the staff had to work.

Unforeseen events, such as the loss of several of its sectional editors and the accelerated program of classes, changed many of the plans made by the staff of the 1943 KEY. Three members of the staff were forced to leave their duties in the middle of the year. Betty Daykin, advertising manager, withdrew from school to marry Hugh Phillips, a junior in the arts college. This vacancy was filled by Eldon Smith. Jim Wright left suddenly to join the nation's air force, thus leaving the sport section editorship vacant. George Baumgartner took over his duties in that capacity.

Finally, Lowell Johnson was forced to leave the staff as minor key editor because of the accelerated program, plus duties in the home guard. The sophomore understudy committee, a group added to the KEY staff in 1941, was put in complete charge of that section of the book. This committee, chosen by the Sophomore class, was composed of Betty Galloway, Fred Geiser, Howard Higley, Carol Reemtsma and Jim Rizek.

Through it all, the staff has tried to do creditable work and to do it on time—a real task which few outside the staff could appreciate.

Again offered at the University of Dubuque this year was the Civil Pilots' Training Course, a government project to train college students in the rudiments of flying. Each semester ten students who passed the written and physical exams were allowed to take the course. The major costs of the instruction were paid by the government with a small tuition fee required of the student. The semester's instruction was climaxed by a cross-country flight — Cedar Rapids-Waterloo-Dubuque.

Prof. R. W. Boydston, head of the department of physics, acted as co-ordinator the first semester. Ground school was in the charge of Woodrow Radle and Rosemary Gibson, while actual flight instruction was under the direction of Reed Every.

Those completing the first semester's course were Herbert Junker, Frank Sass, George Swalve, Al Newland, Al Scheele, Stanley Hanse and Bob Collier. Bert Leask and Bob Sellergren withdrew to join the armed forces of the nation, and Bill Ross withdrew from school.

Those enrolled in the course for the second semester were John Alyea, Kenneth Cristy, Tommy Pickard, Warrington Wick, Paul Watters, Harlan Chesterman and Fred Geiser, all from the University of Dubuque; and Josef Juvik, Elkader, Iowa; Bill Brewer, Lancaster, Wisconsin, and A. W. Latta, Turkey River, Iowa.

Because of the national emergency, only men were allowed to take the course, and then only after a careful checkup on their citizenship, patriotic attitudes, and similar important factors first was made.

BAND

Under the direction of Prof. Ferdinand Di Tella the University of Dubuque Band continued to be one of the most active campus organizations by providing music of a quality which maintained the high standards set by this group in the past.

Early in the year the band traveled to Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, to serve as a clinic band in the Southwestern Wisconsin Music Festival at which they presented an evening concert.

They were on hand at all football and basketball games, and on several occasions provided music for pep meetings and student assemblies. They presented two concerts of popular band selections for the enjoyment of the student body. The annual outdoor concert given on the campus the last Sunday of the year offered the year's activities.

ORCHESTRA

The 65-piece symphony orchestra presented two concerts for students and Dubuque concert-goers this year. The first, a popular concert, was given on January 27 in Peters Commons. The program included Overture to 'Phedre,' "Intermezzo" and "Dance of the Camorristis" from "The Jewels of the Madonna," and "Dance des Bouffons" from the "Snow Maiden." The program also included several shorter selections. The concert in the spring featured Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and was made up entirely of more serious music than the winter concert. Parts of both band and orchestra concerts were broadcast.

University Church

The University Church, which was organized on the campus last year, has continued to provide for those students living on the campus, unidentified with any local church, a Sunday morning worship service; and has, by the use of the offerings, helped to support various phases of missionary work.

Two representatives from the three upper classes and one representative from the Freshman class make up the governing body. Those who served this year are Frances Harms, Robert Allen, Betty Church, Wilbert Beeners, Dorothy Drake, Laverne Justis and Harold Johnson. Betty Church also served as clerk of the session. Each member worked on some committee to assist in the preparation of the worship services.

Pastor and moderator of the student governing group is Rev. C. Vin White, dean of the Seminary. Guest speakers are invited in his absence. Rev. Kilper, of the Dubuque Presbyterian Press, donates the bulletins for the weekly services. Ted Pape assisted in the services at the organ, being the first Sunday church organist the University has had.

A group which has become increasingly more appreciated at the University is the chapel choir under the direction of Prof. Reynold McKeown. This choir, composed of 24 voices, proved the power of effective church music in a carefully integrated service each Sunday. The choir also presented an assembly at Christmas time in collaboration with the University Church. Much of the music was arranged by Prof. McKeown who also conducted it. During the Easter season Paul Ukena who took over Mr. McKeown's duties as choir director, led the group in a number of hymns at an Easter assembly presented by seminary students.

The missionary organizations which have been aided by the free-will offerings include the American Bible Society, American Mission to Lepers, the Chinese Children's Fund, and Dubuque Council of Churches.

A Cappella Choir

Rapidly gaining recognition as one of the finest choirs in the country, the a cappella choir of the University of Dubuque continued its high standard of performance again this year. Prof. Noel J. Logan, with his group of forty-six chosen voices, has carried an inspiring message across the entire eastern half of the nation.

The Sermon in Song reached audiences from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard during the extensive spring tour which was climaxed by the annual home concert on March 18. From Washington, D. C., the choir broadcast a program of their best-loved music. Listeners the entire span of the nation were able to hear the broadcast because of the coast-to-coast hookup which the National Broadcasting Company had arranged over its Blue Network. Singing a program including great choral works by Bach, the Russian masters, and Christiansen, this group extended the reputation of the University for excellence in vocal music.

Appearing also at many University functions, this choir takes its place as one of the most active groups upon the campus. Impressive vestments of original design and a perfectly balanced group of well-trained voices add to the effect of beauty and solemnity which characterizes this organization.

Dubuque In Defense

Long before the United States entered the war officially, the University of Dubuque had realized the importance of preparatory measures to a nation such as this. As a result, students volunteered for all types of service, leaving even before their courses here had been completed, that they might render all aid within their power.

Since the declaration of war on December 7, however, a noticeable increase in student concern for the welfare of this nation has become evident, and men from Dubuque are now serving their country with still more enthusiasm and willingness. Not waiting to be drafted, nor even to be re-classified, both student and faculty men are responding almost daily to the needs of the nation.

Betty Temp

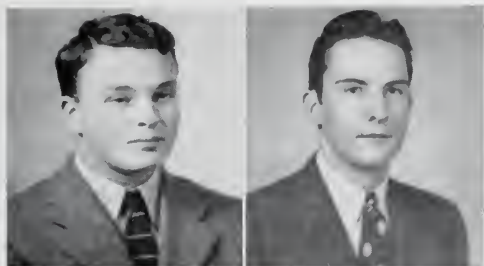

Dubuque women, too, realizing the importance of the part they can play in the defense of their country, are doing all they can to help. Knitting, of course, has been the chief activity among the girls on the campus for almost two years. At Christmas time this year, knowing how much the soldiers miss home cooking, a group of home economics girls baked and sent countless cookies to Dubuque men in camps all over the country.

Perhaps the most noticeable service done by any girl on the University campus, however, is that in which Betty Temp, sophomore, is engaged. Having passed a civil service examination earlier in the year, Betty left her studies to take up secretarial work in Washington, D. C., this winter.

Because many students have had to leave their studies and activities at Dubuque in order to enter a phase of national service, we are dedicating these pages to them that they may be represented somewhere in the yearbook, even though they were unable to complete the year's work. The record of Dubuque men who left school to enlist naturally was not complete at the time the KEY went to press, nor will it be for some time.

However, we are listing here those whose names were available up until the date of deadline, that the record may be as complete as possible. Also, those enrolled in reserve corps have been omitted, for they belong rightly to the list of future men in service.

Two members of the faculty left for actual service: Alfred Volpe re-enlisted in the Marines, and Prof. Reynold McKeown enlisted as yeoman in the Navy. Prof. R. W. Boydston also left his duties in the physics department at the University, going to the Franklin Arsenal, Philadelphia, Pa., to work as a research physicist under civil service, attempting to discover ways of improving guns and gun manufacturing equipment.

Students now serving the country either in the armed forces or other wartime activities are Jack Shimp, LeRoy Thoman, Richard Kluckhohn, Bob Selligren, Bert Leask, Charles Ryan, Robert Ridley, Frank Schneider, Ernest Johnson, Jack Dieter, Bill Blades, Jim Wright, Yorke Gunn, Robert Groom, Jack Berry, Homer Conzett and Robert Schiers.

Drama

Production of five three-act plays and three one-act plays was the accomplishment of this year's dramatic department.

George Washington Slept Here, one of the four plays directed by Prof. D. C. Eysen, was the first play of the year presented in the Little Theater on October 29, 30, 31. This hilarious comedy starred the veteran Thespians—Sally Vail, Dorothy Laskey, Howard Mellang, Walter Fosha and Ted Svennsen.

Nine Pine Street, the fictionalization of the Lizzie Borden Case, was given on December 11 by an all-freshman cast. Mabel Isebrands, a senior dramatic student, directed this presentation.

John Masefield's drama in poetic prose, The Tragedy of Nan, was Prof. Eysen's product of December 15, 17 and 18. Kathleen Cusenbary played the title role in a cast which included Vera Martindale, Robert Jamme, Mabel Isebrands, Edward Cass and Howard Mellang.

The modern fantasy, Thunder Rock, had a run of three performances, on October 26, 27 and 28. All proceeds of the first performance, which was given for the general public, were donated to the Red Cross. The featured actress and actor in Thunder Rock were DeLite May and Wilbert Beeners.

Shakespeare's Twelfth Night was presented in the gymnasium on May 2 as part of the annual May Fete. This was the second of Shakespeare's plays to be given under the supervision of Prof. Eysen.

Senior students from the dramatic department directed the three one-act plays which were given in the Little Theater on the evening of March 26. Elizabeth Powers directed the fantasy Will-O'-the-Wisp; Marguerite Walsh, the romance Londonderry Air; and Dorothy Laskey, the comedy The Florist Shop.

Sports

Within the pages of this section are represented the teams that made possible the title, "College of Champions." Football, basketball, wrestling, tennis, and track—five major sports and five conference championships was the accomplishment in 1942, an achievement which rarely has been equaled. Therefore, these pages are dedicated to those persons most responsible for the success of athletics in the University of Dubuque.

Second Row—Freeman, Lussow, Werkheiser, Hirsch, Riedel, Leask, Coach Peterson.
Third Row—Perkins, Rohl, Irving, Ulrich, Tooker.
Fourth Row—Trainers MacAskill, Maxim, Fitzpatrick.

Track

Fifth place at the Beloit relays, fourth place at the Viking Olympics, and, with the closing of the dual meets leaving a record of four years without a defeat, the Spartan track team climaxed their season with another conference championship. During the season two records were broken: Bob Wilder ran a 2:04.2 half mile, and Bruce Freeman set a new record with a toss of 133' 6".

Without a doubt, the track team has never had a more successful season in its history.

Four senior men having in the annals six consecutive conference championships is the record established by this branch of the athletic department. Also figuring in the ranks of the championship tennis team are the singles and doubles champions of the Iowa Conference.

Although these men went most of the season without a coach, they established a record of ten victories and one defeat. The tennis team has the most outstanding record and more victories than any other major sport in the school.

Concluding the season with four individual championships and the team title at the Wheaton Invitational Tournament, the Spartan wrestlers closed another season, completing the hardest schedule ever encountered. John Kanavas again successfully defeated every opponent in dual meets, stretching his total to three years without a defeat. Once again the wrestling team has upheld the tradition of the "College of Champions."

Football

With the spirit and impetus to win, but not having the breaks of the game, the Spartan football team emerged second at the conclusion of the Iowa Conference football season. Having amassed a total of 326 points to their opponents' 96 was not enough to retain the championship of last season.

However, like all teams, this one had its stars, with six men placing on at least one of the all-conference lists of players. In closing the third year of football under Coach Mercer, the team has a record of seventeen wins, three defeats, and one tie.

Basketball

The Spartans again were the title contenders, and only after the final game of the season was the conference standing of the University team determined. Although the team lost two varsity men, Bert Leask, captain, and Bob Sellergren, to the armed forces, Dubuque remained a constant threat to retain the position of conference champions.

In individual scoring, Bill Riedel and Emil Lussow were among the first five men; and two Dubuque men gained berths on the All-Conference team. In team totals the Spartans scored 761 points to their opponents' 572. The conclusion of the basketball season gives the team a three-year total of 37 wins and 8 losses.

With four years of experience, 35 victories, 15 knockouts, and suffering only three defeats, a rising pugilist coming from "Dubuque" should be placed in the sports lime-light. Already Roger Welty has become the Eastern Iowa champion in the 135-lb. class. His own trainer, Roger fought his way to a chance in the Golden Gloves Tournament where the Western Conference champion is determined. In this tournament he experienced his first technical knockout.

Although he is a freshman and only 18 years old, Welty is entitled to special mention here, for he is destined to gain wide acclaim as a boxer.

Since its very beginning, in 1894, this store has always sought the best for its clientele and has maintained a policy of satisfactory service to all.

The inward urge, each year, to make it better and of more service to the community has resulted in the upbuilding of a great retail institution—one which is conceded as being the largest department store in Iowa.

Diligence, perseverance and straightforwardness count equally as well in business as in school life.
